U. S. BANKERS MEET, VOICE OPTIMISM

GO TO POLLS EARLY IS PLEA OF OFFICIALS

Election Board Prepares For First Day of Registration, Thursday.

ALL MUST REGISTER HERE

City Precinct Headquarters Will Be Open from 1 to 9 P. M. for Registration.

Register early!

That is the appeal sent out today to Marion voters by C. G. [illegible], deputy clerk of the board of elections, as Thursday, the first of three general registration days, nears.

It is pointed out that this year only three days have been allotted for the general registration as compared to four days in previous years. In addition to decrease from the former 11-hour day to eight hours. In other words, the amount of time given Marion voters to register this year is 24 hours as compared to 44 in the past. The loss is provided by the new state law.

Businessmen, Women First

Women, businessmen and others are asked to register on the first registration day if possible, for we know there will be a last-minute rush, Ritzler said.

Each of the city's 42 precincts has more than 500 to 600 voters, who must register in order to vote Nov. 4, but with only 24 hours to register, the registrar judges will have a busy time. That is why we want such voters to register early," he explained.

The election board official said that voters who fail to register on Thursday, or on Oct. 10 and 11, the other registration days will be ineligible to vote Nov. 4 and cannot register after Oct. 11. They can, however, register before any date on non-registration days when they will not be in the city on any one of the three days in question, he said. In that case they must register at the board of elections.

Time from 1 to 9 p. m.

Hours of registraton on the three days are from 1 to 9 p. m. All city precincts will be open during this time.

A school of instruction for the 84 election judges will be held Tuesday morning prior to the opening of the precinct booths at 1 p. m. At 8 a. m. the judges from first and second ward precincts will attend the "school," at which Ritzler will elaborate in detail their duties. Third and fourth ward judges will come at 9:15 a. m. and 10:30 a. m. the judges from the fifth and sixth wards will attend.

This year's registration will be the last of its kind for many years and will be permanent in nature. Card file filing systems have been ordered at the board of elections to handle the registrations. After this year, additions and changes may be made at the election board instead of precincts.

19 LIVES LOST IN WEEK-END OHIO MISHAPS

Automobile Traffic Is Chief Cause of Heavy Fatality List in State.

TRAINS, FIRES BOOST TOLL

Death of Auto Race Driver at Akron One of Chief Tragedies.

By United Press

Nineteen lives were wiped out in Ohio over the week-end in automobile and train accidents, fires and by other forms of violence, a United Press survey today disclosed.

Scores of persons were injured.

Clear, crisp weather brought thousands of motorists upon the highways and the seemingly inevitable number of accidents occurred.

Chief among the automobile deaths was that of Joe Molnar, 30, Detroit racer driver who was killed on the Akron speedway during an A. A. A. race when his car skidded, hurled him clear, then rolled down the course embankment and pinned him beneath it. Almost every bone in Molnar's body was broken.

The accident occurred on the forty-second lap of the scheduled 100-mile race. At the eighty-first lap, race officials halted the race because the board-flooring at the oval was cracking up.

Auto Fatality List

Auto fatalities were recorded as follows:

Cleveland—Mrs. Flossie Buchs, 32, of Kipton, killed and three of her four children injured in collision near Berea.

Manchester—Levi Blackburn, 55, of Vanceburg, Ky., killed when auto skidded over embankment.

Williamsburg—Philip Horn., 26, of Williamsburg, killed at Covington, Ky., across Ohio river when car overturned.

Zanesville — Raymond Mitchell, 19, killed when run down by a hit-skip driver on river road.

Cincinnati—George E. Hageman, 62, printer, fatally injured when struck by car.

Zanesville — Forrest Bilvoc, 22, died when he fell from the roof of his home while installing a radio aerial.

Akron—Margaret Johnson 18, of Peninsula, was killed and two girl companions injured when car crashed through guard rail and plunged down embankment. Mrs. Bertha George 32, of Akron, was fatally injured when car overturned. She died last night. Two other persons were killed outright when the accident occurred Saturday.

Bridgeport—Miss Gladys Straight, 24, school teacher, was killed when she was run down by an auto as she started to enter another car in which her mother was seated.

Toledo—Two Toledo housewives, one a mother of four children, were killed in traffic accidents which occurred within an hour Sunday night. Mrs. Minnie Parker, 57, Wernert's Corners, was killed when struck by an auto driven by Emory Tasiner, 22. Mrs. C. W. Kriner received fatal injuries in a collision between her auto and one driven by Hal Elliott.

FACE MURDER PLOT CHARGE

Woman and Alleged Paramour Held in Akron After Blast Kills Husband.

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., Sept. 29—The widow of Clarence R. Barnes, Akron roofing salesman killed in a dynamite explosion that wrecked his borrowed automobile, appeared today in court at the side of her alleged paramour, and both entered pleas of not guilty to charges of first degree murder.

The widow, Mrs. Lulu Esther Barnes, 37, and the supposed lover, Marshall W. Cornell, 48, paperhanger and former Chicago attorney, both asked for a preliminary hearing which was set for Friday at 9 a. m.

Mrs. Barnes was represented by Oscar Hunsicker, former Summit county prosecutor, and Cornell by William H. Knowlton, former Akron police prosecutor.

The defendants were stoical throughout the brief court appearance. They posed willingly for newspaper photographers. Mrs. Barnes was neatly dressed in a black dress with lace collar and cuffs, a little black hat with pearl ornaments and black shoes and stockings.

Prisoner Unkempt

Cornell was bewhiskered and bedraggled looking after his days and nights in jail. He wore a grey coat and a pair of blue pants.

Prosecutor Don Isham said yesterday the Summit county grand jury is to deliver a partial report Wednesday and after that will be immediately available to consider the Barnes-Cornell case.

Barnes was killed last Tuesday when the automobile Cornell is alleged to have loaned him exploded and hurled him 40 feet.

The blast, detective chief McDonnell said, was caused by two sticks of dynamite placed underneath the gasline tank and so connected with the light wires that they exploded when Barnes turned on the lights.

Insured for $2,000

Mrs. Barnes, the detective said, eight months ago obtained a $2,000 life insurance policy upon her husband. She and Cornell were examining the policy when they were arrested, it was reported.

At first the explosion was believed to have originated in the gasoline tank, but McDonnel became suspicious when he learned Barnes had escaped death in a similar manner two months ago and that Cornell was reported to have made an Akron underworld character two offers "to bump off a husband." McDonnell said he had found a witness who said Cornell at first offered $200 and then $300.

Last July Barnes was driving near here when motorists stopped him with warnings of sparks flying from the exhaust pipe. He stepped out and discovered a package of dynamite which exploded when he hurled it away, McDonnell reported.

Investigators learned that Cornell placed his automobile at Barnes disposal after the salesman disposed of his own car.

The Barnes have one son, Richard, eight. Cornell has a 17-year-old son and a divorced wife living here.

Massa was sentenced to die Jan. 2 with McCartney to follow Jan 10 and Sites, Jan. 12.

ROUND UP KIN OF GANG HEADS

Wives and Other Near Relatives of "Public Enemies" To Be Held as Hostages.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 29—The "next of kin" of Chicago's "public enemies" today were ordered arrested, to be held as hostages for the "enemies" themselves.

Detective Chief Norton, ordering this action, told his men to arrest the wives of the "enemies" where possible. Failing in this, the nearest relatives of the hunted men are to be taken.

Vagrancy warrants have been signed for the "public enemies"—the 26 most notorious figures of the city's gang life—and the relatives are to be held until such time as the enemies surrender or are found.

Four of them already are under arrest. One surrendered, another was found in a police cell on another charge, and two were found in hospitals.

One of the latter, Terry Druggan of the erstwhile beer baronecy of Druggan and Lake, is at the university hospital. His doctors say he will die if he is moved, but police insist that he be taken to Bridewell prison hospital. In addition to the vagrancy warrant, a federal charge of having evaded income tax payments has been made against him.

The state's attorney's fight against labor racketeers—the men who have taken control by force of a number of union treasuries—received a setback when a number of union leaders called on Col. A. A. Sprague, anti-crime leader, and protested against the campaign. Legitimate unions are being made the sufferers, the labor men charged.

HATCHET-GUN TRAGEDY IS INVESTIGATED

Marine Officer Found Dead, Wife Wounded, in Hotel at Washington.

SHROUDED IN MYSTERY

Police Not Inclined To Put Credence in Murder-Suicide Theory.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 — A hatchet and gun tragedy left Lieut Col. Richard B. Creecy dead and his wife horribly wounded in their hotel suite yesterday.

Police at first constructed an "attempt murder-suicide" theory, the marine officer being found on the floor with a bullet through his heart and Mrs. Creecy nearby with her head gashed. Today she lay in Emergency hospital, fear for her life being felt.

Police waited in hope that she would regain consciousness and aid them to learn what happened. They had become dissatisfied with the first theory overnight. Detective Edward D. Kelly, on request of the wealthy Creecy family, started tracing the implements of death both of which were new.

Seeks Origin of Weapons

"I want to know what happened in that room," he said, "and it is likely that the tracing of the gun and hatchet will be the answer."

Marine corps headquarters ordered a special board of inquest to investigate. The dead officer, aged 49, was second in command of the Haiti constabulary. He was here on leave. His Father, Col. E. C. Creecy, aged 84, said his son had an income of approximately $20,000 a year and that Mrs. Creecy was well-to-do.

Inspector William S. Shelby, chief of detectives, advanced the possibility that the marine had assaulted his wife and killed himself in a temporary fit of insanity. He discounted a suggestion by the father that the officer had been murdered.

Locked from Inside

When the couple was found, after the officer had been dead approximately 12 hours, Shelby said, the door of the hotel suite was latched from the inside. There was no evidence, he added, that anyone had entered the window.

A considerable sum of money and some railroad reservations to New York had not been disturbed. Occupants of nearby rooms were said not to have heard any disturbance.

DEMOCRATS OPEN N. Y. CONVENTION

Wagner, Temporary Chairman, Declares for Honesty in Choosing Officials.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 29 In his address as temporary chairman of the New York Democratic state convention here today, United States Senator Robert F. Wagner declared that whoever "attains judicial or other public office by dishonest means should be driven therefrom, as also from the ranks of our party."

This declaration was an indirect reference to the grand jury investigation of alleged judicial scandals in New York City.

Discussing the national affairs, Senator Wagner said that the last 18 months in Washington had witnessed:

"The collapse of the president's panacea for farm relief; the collapse of the hope for tax reductions; the collapse of our foreign trade and the collapse of domestic industry and the tremendous increase in unemployment; the collapse of the alleged economy program; and the collapse of the administration's scientific pretentions."

EXPECT 5,000 AT CONVENTION IN CLEVELAND

Bankers of Nation Assembling Today Cheerful Over Business Outlook.

AWAIT HOOVER VISIT

Principal Interest of Week To Center in President's Address Thursday.

By United Press

CLEVELAND, Sept 29—More than 5,000 members of the American Bankers' association, in convention here this week, opened group sessions and committee meetings today.

The first general session will be held tomorrow in public hall.

Principal interest in the convention continued to center on the speech that President Hoover will make Thursday night at the closing session.

Friends of the President said the speech would prove a studious and closely reasoned address that might become text matter for Republican candidates in the fall election.

The interest of the bankers centered, next, on a speech by Rudolf S. Hecht of New Orleans, chairman of the A. B. A. economic policy committee.

Hecht spent most of last week in Chicago and New York, conferring with members of his committee, considered by A. B. A. men as one of their most important, on the text of his address.

Generally Optimistic

Bankers, on the whole, proved optimistic about business conditions. Michigan delegates reported increased automobile orders and prospects for a pick-up in employment. Southwestern bankers said conditions there were on the upgrade and that in some sections the depression had not been felt seriously.

It was understood that the agricultural committee of the A. B. A. was drafting a report which would show the prices of farm products, considering a diversified list, rank well in comparison to the general index to commodity prices.

"I think the tone of the convention will be distinctly optimistic," Rome C. Stephenson, first vice president of the A. B. A. said. "I think conditions warrant such an attitude."

Stephenson is slated to succeed John G. Lonsdale of St. Louis, as president. Lonsdale, arriving on a special train from the West, issued a statement in which he said:

Opportune Time for Service

"Never has the time been more opportune than now for banking leaders to get their heads together to interpret the trend of the times and to chart the safest course which business and banking may pursue.

"In the convention which began today, and in the general sessions which open tomorrow, it shall be our endeavor to present as clearly as possible a picture of the problems with which we are faced, and, as far as practicable, to point out ways by which these problems may be solved."

Tax legislation and administrative reform in state and national governments were to be discussed by a number of speakers during the convention. Some speakers were expected to demand a share in the profits of the federal reserve banks and general adoption of state budgetary systems was to be proposed.

Women Bankers Convene

Women bankers, members of the association of bank women, opened sessions simultaneous with the meeting of the A. B. A.

Membership in the association is restricted to women who work in banks in executive capacities. Six women who head banks were in attendance. One of the features was to be an address by Judge Florence Allen of the state supreme court tomorrow night.

"Why shouldn't the Russian government hedge on the Chicago market?"

"I can see no reason why they shouldn't," he answered.

FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS AID MODERNIZIN

Neighbors Get Surprise as Workers Build Neat Cottage From Old House

Even the neighbors were amazed when the builders finished their work on the clean little dwelling shown to the left. They could not realize that is was possible to make such a charming cottage from the old, wornout house below.

To the casual passerby the modernized version of the old place is an entirely new structure, for it is up-to-date in line and execution.

The shingled sides, the new window sash and trim, the enclosed porch are features of the modernized home.

When the subject of remodeling the old house came up it was immediately decided that the old porch must go. Open porches are seldom used nowadays, and the owners knew that they were getting only a few months' use out of the old porch. By enclosing the porch and making a sun room out of it, they were securing an addition that could be used the year round.

Even during the hot months of the year the sun parlor is as comfortable as an open porch, for the windows can be opened wide to let in the cooling breezes. During winter months the room can be heated either by radiator or warm air duct, depending on the type of heating plant in the basement.

When adding the sun room the roof lines were changed to give a full sweeping effect. Now the roof instead of being abruptly chopped off at the cornice sweeps on to cover the sun parlor. The enclosing of the porch necessitated a new entrance and this has been made at the right side of the house. Here the roof was extended sharply down to cover the entrance. The irregularity of the roof lines adds to the picturesque appearance of the dwelling.

When the old house was originally designed the architect favored the use of small window openings. Today, however, the window openings are large and a number of sash units are combined to fill the opening. This modernized version keeps these characteristics. The double hung windows are combined to fill the openings, adding considerably to the lighting and ventilation of the interior. The window trim has been painted white to contrast with the siding of the house. The painting of window trim in contrasting colors always brings out the architectural lines and emphasizes the features of the design.

The siding has been covered by singles, tinted a warm color to aid in bringing out the cozy, comfortable atmosphere which the design engenders. The shingles were placed directly over the old clapboarding.

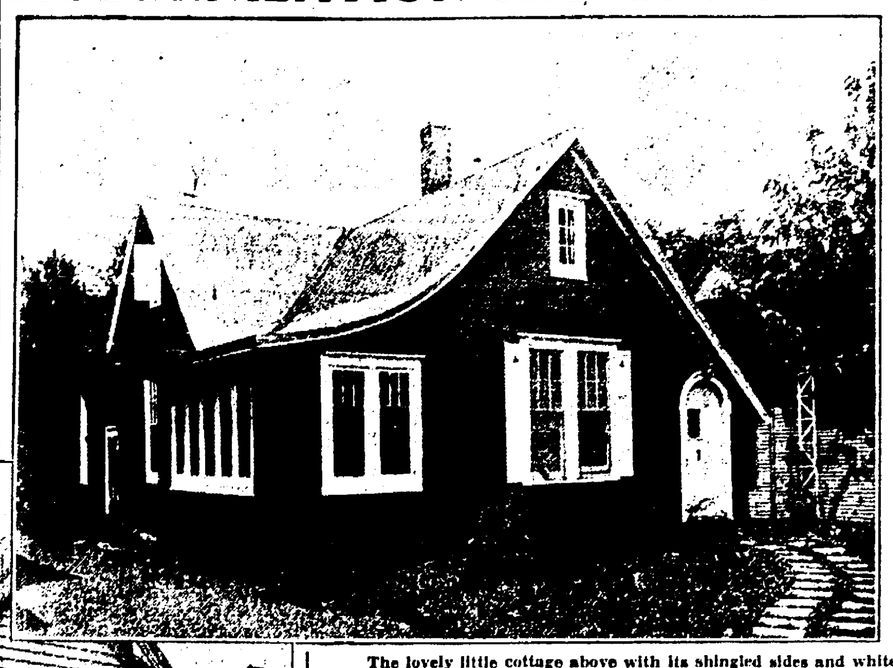
Both at the front and side the old bay was torn out when the new sash and trim were installed. The ornate decorations plainly indicated the age of the house and stamped it as being in need of modernization.

Stepping Stones Unique Touch

The use of stepping stones from the public walk to the new entrance adds a touch of the picturesque to the dwelling. Stepping stones carry out the comfortable intimate feeling and are always artistic and informal. The new entrance with its arched head and plain door, with peephole is attractive.

Batten blinds are placed at each side of the windows at the front to add to the appearance of the trim. Around to the side a casement window without swinging ventilator has been added to the gable.

MODERNIZATION PROVES ITS CASE



The lovely little cottage above with its shingled sides and white trim was modernized from the weatherbeaten old timer at the left. These illustrations prove that modernization really does all that is claimed for it.

PLANT INSTALLATION IMPORTANT FACTOR

Poor Engineering May Lead to Faulty Performance of Heating Supplies.

The heating system used in homes plays such an important role in family health and comfort that builders of new homes should pay especial attention to its installation, points out the institute of thermology.

Many home owners have learned to their sorrow that the rule-of-thumb method in picking out a heating plant has been the cause of a great deal of dissatisfaction and wasted fuel. They have learned by hard experience that it does not pay to save building money by investing in a cheap heating system, and that a "home that is hard to heat" is poor recompense for the few dollars saved on the heating plant.

Heating systems should be "tailored to fit the house," says the institute, and only then can heating satisfaction be assured. There are many things to be considered, each one of which vitally effects heating-plant performance. Modern heating engineers give consideration to the size of the house, its location, type of construction, size and layout of rooms, location of interior walls, size and number of windows and doors, whether building is completely or partly insulated, and type of insulation used. And from their study of these things, they compute the possible heat losses, and then decide upon the size heater necessary to replace these heat losses, and where it should be placed to render the most efficient heating service.

As is apparent, satisfactory heating-plant performance is contingent upon the services of heating experts, and it is unwise to entrust the installation of this important home equipment to any Tom, Dick or Harry who happens to be in the business.

One of the leading manufacturers of warm-air heating systems refuses to permit the installation of its heating plants by other than factory-trained heating engineers through whom the plants are distributed, and every sale and proposed installation is passed upon by the company's engineering department before these men are authorized to proceed with an installation.

STEEL COAL CHUTES PROTECT BUILDINGS

Prevent Damage to Woodwork from Flying Chunks; Suitable Barrier.

Carefully planned homes today are being constructed with steel or cast iron coal inlets. The old fashioned window with a wooden frame always served badly as a coal chute. Flying chunks of coal mar and dirty the woodwork and often break the glass in the basement sash. The wooden coal inlet was always an unsightly entrance.

Today steel coal chutes are being used because of their many advantages. The steel frame resists damage from moving coal. The sides of the building are always protected. When closed the steel plate that forms the cover or window acts as a barrier against intruders.

Bankers Help Deserv To Make Homes Bet

Modernized Buildings Found To Be Safe Risk for Pla Money; Many Sources Available for Home Owners To Obtain Funds.

The home owner today who is looking for financial aid when modernizing his home has at his command a varied source of institutions who stand ready to help him in carrying out his plans.

He can go to these financial institutions with a clear cut proposition and he can be assured an interested sympathetic audience.

Modern bankers are interested in home modernization for they know that the movement is not only building up the town, but is placing their depositors' money in a safe investment.

Varied Source of Money

When the home owner is ready to seek money for carrying out his modernizing ideas, he has a varied source of institutions from which he can usually secure the cash to pay the bills.

He may have saved the money and have it standing ready in his savings or checking account. The average man, however, has to borrow the money from some financial institution.

Banks, national and state, building and loan associations, private individuals and some insurance organizations stand ready to lend their money on real estate loans of this character.

Modernization Risk Is Good

These financial organizations are willing to loan money on modernization programs because they know that the risk is good. Money invested in improving property adds to the value of the property. Every dollar invested in modernizing a home adds to the value of the dwelling by just so much. Many home owners who have modernized their home state that for each dollar invested they receive two or three dollars in increased value in the house.

An investigation made by one organization showed that 32 per cent of the number questioned believed that they received nearly two dollars in increased value of the old house for each dollar invested. Eighteen per cent of the others stated they had received double their investment. Fifteen per cent felt that they had received $4 and more for every dollar they spent in modernizing.

Financial men know that the value of the house immediately increases when money is spent on modernizing and that the loans are placed where the return is sure. That is why they are receptive toward the home owner who needs money for improvements. They know that there is little or no risk involved.

Amounts Needed Not Large

The amount of money needed for modernization is not excessive. The investigation made by the ization referred to above dis that most of the impro were accomplished at an ture of $1000 or less. Six every ten homes, as a ma fact. An investigation mad building and loan organiza vealed that the average c modernization is $2000. Thi covered over 100,000 homes considered accurate.

"Tallest" Dahlia

COUNTY AUDITOR EARL E. THOMAS laid down a challenge to Mrs. Martha Barclay of Santa Cruz, Calif., as the grower of the tallest dahlia in the world

"I've got one at my home at 458 East Church street that beats Mrs. Barclay's by more than a foot," Thomas declared today. "Her dahlia is seven feet tall, according to the newspapers, while mine measures eight feet and one inch."

The dahlia owned by Thomas is so tall that he must look out the second story window to see the flower, he declared jokingly.

Thomas' dahlia is known as the Jersey Beauty, while that of Mrs. Barclay's is an Ammond Rau.

Good Bet

NOT content with their incessant arguments over the rights and wrongs of gas rates, E. M. Tharpe, assistant general manager of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. and Councilman W. G. Slack have carried their arguments at council meetings into the field of sports.

Councilman Slack happened to remark he had been to Columbus to obtain some football tickets in the Ohio State university stadium. Tharpe replied by pulling from his pocket several tickets for an early game.

"You probably know where these are," he said to Councilman Slack.

"You bet I do, I know all about that stadium," Slack said. "Those seats are within a few feet of the 50 yard line."

"Oh, no, they're quite a ways from the 50 yard line, but they're good seats," Tharpe countered.

And so the argument continued until Tharpe capped the climax with, "I'll bet you."

"How much?"

"Five bucks."

"You're on."

Wants Family History

GERALD C. GRISWOLD, feature writer for the magazine section of the Omaha World Herald, stopped in Marion long enough recently to learn of the activities of his great-grandfather, S. A. Griswold, once editor of the Buckeye Eagle here in the forties, and to attempt to locate the site of Griswold Tavern, also operated by his great-grandfather nearly 100 years ago.

The history of Marion county reveals that the first number of the Buckeye Herald was issued May 22, 1844, with Mr. Griswold as editor. Mr. Griswold took complete charge of the paper on May 19, 1847, and conducted it until May 17, 1850.

Concerning Mr. Griswold the history says: "S. A. Griswold was born probably in Delaware, O., graduated at Gambier College, lived in Tiffin a number of years, then in Marion, and has been at Lancaster for perhaps 20 years, editor of the Gazette."

The history made no mention of Griswold Tavern, but it is believed that the tavern was located at the point of the junction of the Marion-Bucyrus road and the Marion-Upper Sandusky road north of here.

"Sandy" Griswold, sports editor of the Omaha World Herald for a third of a century, and father of Gerald Griswold, was born in Marion.

Mr. Griswold was returning to Omaha from Washington, D. C., in company with his wife and mother, when he stopped here to obtain additional information of his family history.

WORLD WHEAT SUPPLY LARGE

Market Weak Statistically, but Favorable to Ohio, Bulletin Says.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 29—The wheat market is favorable to many Ohio farmers even though it is very weak statistically, according to a bulletin issued here today by the Ohio Farm Bureau Corporation. As a result of low prices farmers who are compelled to buy feed can now purchase wheat at from $28 to $30 a ton, while corn is about $4 higher, the bulletin says. The bulletin continues that only Ohio farmers who are urgently in need of money are selling wheat at this time.

The bulletin states that there is too much wheat in the world in the face of the present existing demands.

When nobody cares very much whether he buys wheat or not, the bulletin adds, the market is then in a statistical position where rumors and manipulations cause serious declines in price. In ordinary times, the bulletin says, reported Russian interference would have little effect upon the general market as a whole.

Prices Low in Europe

Wheat is being offered in Europe at low prices and consequently it is very difficult to sell wheat from this country and from Canada. The present stagnation, according to the bulletin, in the market is not altogether a matter of prices because it seems that the Soviet government is determined to sell wheat at cut-rates, so that North American wheat can not be sold in Europe to any extent at present.

This also includes a good portion of the Canadian wheat, according to the bulletin.

The Canadian crop is estimated to be 385,000,000 bushels, the bulletin says. This is one-fourth again as large as last year.

Weather conditions have been favorable for early harvesting, threshing and marketing north of Ohio, according to the bulletin.

The supply of wheat at the principal terminal markets in the United States is estimated by the bulletin at 202,620,000 bushels as compared with 188,343,000 bushels last year. The largest supplies of this week are in Minneapolis, Kansas City, Duluth and Chicago.

Buying Power Low

With a somewhat decreased buying power all over the world, this increase in supplies compared with a year ago takes on a much greater importance than a comparison of the figures alone would suggest.

These figures, the bulletin says, show clearly the weak statistical position of the wheat market. There is a possibility that heavy feeding of wheat may decrease the supply in this country to an extent where the tariff may become operative and later in the season prices may increase.

The bulletin says the recent excitement over short selling in Chicago has added something towards discouraging anyone who might be inclined to buy ahead of present needs, but the effect of such short selling would not have been noticeable had there been a real demand for wheat at this time.

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, Sept. 30

ALTHOUGH the stellar operations for this day point to very lively and interesting developments of the affairs, yet there may be many opposing features and unsetting problems and complications. There may be a sudden change or upheaval with financial hazard and accompanied by wrangling or sinister attack. But personal contacts may prove conciliatory and give happiness.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by an unsetting and perplexing year, with much to be composed by good judgment, calm behavior and sagacious financial judgment. There may be unwelcome change, much dissension and sinister situations to confront, but the purely personal affiliations may prove compensatory.

A child born on this day should be clever and versatile, also energetic and given to bold strokes, but its fortunes may fluctuate and bring a restless and changeable life, albeit its personal relations may bring happiness.

Director of the Census W. M. Steuart has filed an answer to the petition of the city of Atlanta, which seeks to swell its official population of 270,366 to 360,691 by counting as residents all the people of the surrounding country inside an area of 184 square miles. The ambition of those Atlantans is exceeded only by their nerve.

Phone Rates and Rebates.

The action of the state utilities commission in ordering the Ohio Associated Telephone company, successor to the Marion County Telephone company, to establish lower rates and refund $112,000 collected from subscribers between August 1, 1925, and December 31, 1928, is a victory for the city, but hardly of such proportions as was anticipated by many and hoped for by more.

While the aggregate of the rebate is a considerable sum, to the individual it will amount to approximately twenty-five cents a month, or three dollars a year, for the period covered by the order, and there will be about the same monthly saving to the subscriber on the establishment of the new rate.

By way of illustration, the subscribers who have been paying three dollars a month for a wall phone will be charged $2.75 under the new rate. The new charge is decidedly preferable to the present, but it is still, if one may judge by the old bills, fifty cents above the rate in force preceding March 31, 1925. In other words, the $2.25 rate raised by the telephone company to three dollars at that time has been ordered cut by the state commission to $2.75.

Looking back over the five years of controversy over this matter of telephone rates, one can not help but feel that, had a less contentious spirit ruled back in 1925, possibly an agreement might have been reached which would have been just as satisfactory to all concerned as the order of the state utilities commission leaves the situation and no question of rebates would have developed.

To the Other Extreme.

Addressing the convention of the Savings Banks Association of New York in the city of Quebec, last week, Vice President Francis H. Sisson, of the Guaranty Trust company, of New York, made the prediction that the swift increase in savings banks deposits which has been manifested for several months throughout the United States will continue "until general business prosperity has been restored, and probably for some time thereafter."

If this New York financier is right, and there is every reason to believe that he is and none to the contrary, the steadily mounting total of deposits in savings banks for many years, save during the period of the Wall Street stock investment orgy, will continue to grow indefinitely into the future.

It is a matter of common knowledge that during the period of last fall's craze the withdrawals from savings banks reached enormous proportions. It may be said that the thirst to grow rich over night became nation-wide, and that if the savings institutions of any community did not feel its influence it was akin to a miracle. Hundreds of thousands not only drew on their savings accounts to invest in stocks on margins, but, as shown in the comparative weakness of the government securities market, also sold Liberty bonds and other government securities to buy stocks on margins at two, three, four and up to eight times their value on an earning basis.

The paper profits were enormous—for a time, but it was the exceptional small investor who had his account closed at the time. The overwhelming majority held on only to see their investments as well as their paper profits wiped out.

Then the reaction set in for sound investments. A rate of increase in savings banks deposits such as the country had never previously known began to develop. A land wild in its dream of more wealth became a land desirous of saving that which it had. Safety became the watchword. No better illustration can be had of this than that offered by government bonds. Liberty 4¼'s, which during the panic dropped to but a fraction over ninety-eight, began to go up, and last week were almost three and a half above par, an appreciation of practically five per cent.

In fact, this thirst for safety is one of the factors in retarding a quicker return to normal business and industrial conditions. Those employed are buying less than they have for years that they may save more. Seeing others let out of employment, and for months living in fear that they might be the next to go, they have been making provision for such an eventuality. The Wall Street crash and the period of unemployment from which the country is now emerging have combined to teach a lesson. Some economists may be inclined to hold that the lesson has been too deeply implanted; that, from an orgy of wild speculation and wild buying, the country has gone to the other extreme.

The Chicago board of trade has barred Russia as a short seller, but the grain gamblers will be permitted to manipulate the market in the same old way.

Time money at two and three-fourth per cent. went begging on the New York market last week, collateral loans were extended at two and a half per cent., and the call rate was two per cent. Apparently money is experiencing as much difficulty in securing employment as are men.

The Golf Marvel.

The highly improbable—what was held by many devotees of golf the impossible—the taking of the four major golf championships in one year by the same man—has been accomplished by Bobby Jones. To him have gone alike the United States and British open and amateur titles, and he stands today the golf wonder of all time.

Such is the personality of the young Atlantan, it has been said, that even those who go down before his prowess admire and wish him well. May it not be that herein lies one of the elements of his great success on the links? That poise—that manner and bearing—which makes and holds admirers and friends may in large part have been a great factor in the long line of titles which have gone to him, not alone this year, but in years past as well.

The "Morelos" divorce law has again been held invalid by a Mexico City court, a Mexican who had remarried after being divorced without the notification of his wife being held a bigamist. Americans who have secured Mexican divorces may realize one of these days the folly of not having patronized a home industry by going to Reno.

As the result of modifications in the power installation of the Canadian-Pacific liner, Empress of India, the British are hoping to land passengers in Quebec in four days and then rush them by rail to New York City hours ahead of all liners using the all-water route from Europe, including the Bremen and the Europa. Evidently the Canadian-Pacific people hold that speed's the thing, regardless of the discomfort caused by the change of transportation.

DESOLATION AND BOREDOM.

Amidst the persistent clacking of altruist pacificists it is refreshing to hear a distinguished voice raised in protest against these popular undigested outcries.

Professor R. B. Perry, professor of philosophy at Harvard, at the International Congress of Philosophers convened at Oxford, indulged in some plain and rational remarks that should impress both learned men and common people not intrigued by the complexities and niceties of philosophical considerations.

Dr. Perry said that if the era of peace is to be postponed until the nations of the world understand one another, we shall have to wait a long time. He declared: "I question whether we really desire this difficult and perhaps unattainable community of mind.

"Certainly to me, as an American—and I hope a good American—there is nothing more profoundly repugnant than the thought of the Americanization of the world. An ultimate peace among men will not rest upon sameness of ideas or sentiments or customs. This—even if it were attainable—would be a peace of desolation and intolerable boredom."

The Utopias of the world, of localized or general conception, have not proved to be acceptable to men. Elysian Fields and Lotus Lands beckon joyously only from the dream shores of the paradise of dreamers. Orthodoxies themselves offer us only in their varied concepts of heaven an assured Utopia—and it usually is pictured as a place of rest, of sameness of ideas, associations, sentiments and customs. Perhaps the true home of the spirit is not so, but so they describe it. As for earthly uniform peace as envisioned by those who would have it, it suggests a social condition which Dr. Perry rather aptly defines as a state of desolation and intolerable boredom.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Ohio "Black Strings."

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

The familiar name of the Facisti, the Italian political organization, is "Black Shirts," so called from the black shirt that is a distinctive feature of their dress, and the fact recalls that just prior to the civil war there was an organization formed in Ohio, which, though it had a name as formal as that of the Italian Black Shirts, was commonly known as the "Black Strings."

When the investigation of the John Brown raid began, it was found that a building near West Andover, Ashtabula county, had been used as a storehouse for arms for use in the raid and the subpoenaing of people in that village in a general way was expected. John Brown, Jr., was so served and convinced by this the villagers organized the "Independent Sons of Liberty," whose object was to resist the dragging of West Andoverans off to Washington under processes.

They had signs, a password and a ritual, and it was not long before a state lodge, or rather grand lodge, to control the organization of local lodges in other parts of the state, and many such lodges were organized and finally a United States lodge. But the primary purpose of the organization had passed away and the declared purpose was now to act politically and in a revolutionary manner, if necessary, to accomplish the overthrow of slavery.

Some distinctive badge by which members of the organization might recognize each other was needed. Members tied a small black string through a button hole in their coats; hence the "Black Strings."

Most Common Ailments.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

When we learn to observe the sensible rules of hygienic living, then, and not until then, may we expect to be free from aches and pains. Most of our uncomfortable symptoms come from our own mistakes.

One of the most common of human ailments is sore throat. It may occur in the middle of the summer, or in the coldest months. There are a large number of persons who invariably place the blame for this trouble on bad weather conditions. Nine times out of ten, careful study of the case will show some violation of the rules of hygiene.

Worry, overtiredness from overwork or any other cause, lack of sleep, all cause a lowering of the body's resistance to infection. When in such a condition of decreased vitality, it is perfectly natural to chill easily. This is what happens if the day is damp and cold or in summer if one is suddenly exposed to a draft when overheated.

And so we say it is the weather. But the real cause lies in the bodily condition. Your sore throat is only a symptom.

Chronic constipation is responsible for more ills than almost any other condition that attacks the human body. It is such a common thing that most persons take it for granted. If the intestinal tract is not clean, if it is clogged with waste matter for days and sometimes weeks, this sets up toxic substances which poison the system. When that happens something unpleasant is bound to happen.

Too many persons abuse the stomach with too rich food and too much food. This results in a bodily state which prepares for the condition known as a "cold." Sore throat makes its appearance.

The lower bowel has a delicate lining membrane from which the veins carry the blood almost directly to the liver. These large blood vessels form what is known as the "portal circulation." The function of the liver is to filter out the facteria and poisons from the blood, poisons that have been picked from the intestinal tract.

Under the ordinary conditions of good health, the liver does its work effectively. But it can not do the impossible thing. Sometimes, when the poisons have accumulated in too large quantities, they escape into the general blood stream and are carried to other parts of the body.

Given such a condition, if a person were to talk for too long a time, so that the throat muscles were overtaxed, or if a man had smoked too much, the throat would become irritated and congested. It is then that bacteria get in their work. If they lodge in that region the victim would have a sore throat probably.

When you have a sore throat the best thing to do is to get rid of the bowel accumulation. This can be done with the help of enemas or medication.

Restrict the diet for a day or two until your digestive apparatus has time to recuperate. Get plenty of sleep and rest so as to build up your resisting power against further poisoning of the system.

If a chill should occur with the cold, take a hot drink and a hot bath, so as to overcome the congestion of the parts. Keep covered warmly in bed and allow nature to do the rest. Your doctor will prescribe a simple remedy to assist.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Sept. 29 — Senator Thomas Walsh, of Montana, must have chuckled silently when he read in the papers that Louis Cramton, of Michigan, had been defeated in his effort to keep his seat in the house.

Senator Walsh is having the political battle of his life to hold his seat in the senate. For that reason probably he is able to appreciate the situation all the more.

Walsh and Cramton got mixed up in a feud at the close of the last congress.

The latter, as chairman of the sub-committee on appropriations in the house, succeeded in getting through that body an amendment to the interior appropriations bill that construction of a road through the Glacier national park in Montana be held up until private owners either sell their property or permit the government to condemn it.

Walsh owns a summer home in this area.

• • •

What Walsh objected to—and he fought with the tenacity of a bulldog on the floor of the senate—was that Cramton consulted neither him nor Senator Wheeler, his colleague, about the thing.

The Michigander is a recognized authority on the question of parks. He has visited most of them, has made a careful study of their needs, and has come to the front in the house whenever this question was up for discussion.

Added to this, Cramton is a member of that powerful group in the house which guides the expenditure of public money, and is jealous of the house's right in such matters.

Stocky, robust and bespectacled, he fights to the last ditch when aroused.

"We should get rid of the private holdings in our national parks," said Cramton, after Walsh had succeeded in getting an amendment through the senate staying the power of condemnation of such property, "as soon as we can and secure the national parks for the people of the nation.

"Senator Walsh knows that in ownership of a home in the Glacier national park he has a certain area that is his and the rest of us have what is left."

• • •

Cramton remarked further that there have been parks where it was wanted to establish automobile camps for John Jones and his flivver, and in order to do so the land had to be bought.

"I have thought sometimes," he said, "that all we own is the scenery and that all the land—in parks—was in private ownership."

The battle went on merrily for quite a while. Conference after conference between house and senate was necessary before final agreement was reached.

It was finally agreed that the government would have authority to condemn any land within any of the parks, except those used exclusively for residence or religious purposes.

This was by no means to the liking of Walsh, and he did not hesitate to say so.

It was Thursday, September 25.

Governor Judson Harmon, the Star reported, was the honored guest of Marion the day before and made a splendid Democratic speech at the county fair.

The Star reported the marriage by Rev. George E. Bernard, the night before, of Mrs. Mary Beach, seventy-two, and Mr. John L. Wheeler, eighty-one.

Local factories and shops closed down owing to the fair.

A reception was given Rev. Mr. and Mrs. H. V. McCleary at the Wesley M. E. church by the members of the congregation.

William Fields tendered his resignation as postmaster at Caledonia.

The day's attendance at the county fair was estimated at 20,000.

"...have a stroke?"

"No. As soon as he got some whisky aboard he was all right. Lambert also declared that Jack's workshop was fitted up as a laboratory, for experimental work. It's damn fishy, to my way of thinking, Thorne."

"It is," agreed Thorne, thoughtfully. "Why put a lock on the door of an empty room?"

"And some one jammed the lock trying to get the door open," supplemented Mitchell. "Hanged if I understand it. Say, what took you to the boarding house tonight?"

"I went there to find some clew to Jack Winslow's present whereabouts," Thorne explained. "And I was just leaving when Mrs. Sims' young daughter found Mrs. Lawrence dead upstairs."

"Oh, ho! So Master Jack knew Mrs. Lawrence?"

"Perhaps," shortly; by a half truth he had diverted further questioning to other channels. "Have you had any news of him?"

Mitchell smiled wryly. "No," he admitted. "But. . . .! If he's still alive, he's got to be in contact with some one, some time—he's got to get food to live."

"And money to live on," added Thorne. 'From testimony at the inquest, he was badly strapped for funds. It makes me think, Inspector," speaking more slowly, "that Jack isn't so far from home."

Mitchell nodded grimly. "He's in cahoots with some one, that's certain. I'm having Lambert shadowed."

"Why Lambert particularly?" quickly.

"His manner this evening when we found Jack's workshop empty was so uneasy that it aroused my suspicions," explained the inspector. "And I believe he must have had a hand in removing the furniture. . . ."

"Without the knowledge of the other inmates of the house? Oh, come, Mitchell!"

"Easy as pie, with the elevator," retorted the older man. "Run the elevator to the attic, fill it up, take it to the basement and choose a time when every one is out of the house—who could be the wiser?"

"Is the furniture and chemical apparatus in the basement?"

"No," acknowledged Mitchell. "It could have been taken away from there in the same stealthy manner. I find that it's been Mr. and Mrs. Winslow's custom to spend a great deal of time in town."

"And Miss Elsa Chase, recollect, she is an invalid."

"And for that reason not able to see what is going on," triumphantly. "The cook's more or less of a fool; Peter, the chauffeur, ditto."

"How about the three others—Lucy, the maid; the nurse, Miss Kline, and Sam Ferguson?" asked Thorne. "Have you questioned them?"

"Only the first two." Mitchell's active mind veered off at a tangent. "Say, that Lucy is cookoo; she believes in visions and all that," vaguely. "She talked to Jackson about some shadow chasing her across the lawn some nights ago—say, is that your car?" as they made a bend in the road and his powerful lights fell on an automobile parked near a culvert. On Thorne's quick affirmative, he drew up at the side of the road. "If you are out of gas, how are you going to get to Oaklands?"

"Jim's bringing me some."

"Why spend time waiting. I'll run you out there," and giving Thorne no opportunity to decline, he stepped on the gas. As they turned into the Winslow estate, Thorne noticed a man detach himself from the protecting shadows of the tall hedge.

"Jackson," explained Mitchell, as the detective lifted his hand on recognizing the inspector's car. "They may not know it, Thorne, but every member of the Winslow household is under police surveillance." He slowed down as Jackson came up to them.

"Mr. and Mrs. Winslow motored into town just after you left, Inspector," he reported. "They haven't returned."

Mitchell glanced at his companion. "How about it, Thorne? Want to stay or come back tomorrow morning?"

"Stay," briefly, and Mitchell continued along the drive to the mansion. "Keep your engine running," Thorne suggested a moment later as they came to a stop before the front door. "It'll drown our talk. Tell me," his voice was just audible, "have you gone through the garage, the gardener's cottage, with a view to Jack's being concealed in either place?"

"I have, first thing, and so thoroughly that I KNOW Jack Winslow isn't there."

"What operatives did you have about the grounds while you, Jackson and the locksmith were in the attic tonight?" he asked.

"Spencer and Morse; they were relieved at 9 o'clock."

"Good. Let me have those papers you took from the drawer in front of Mrs. Lawrence; I'll return them tomorrow."

Lambert answered the door bell with such promptness that Thorne concluded he had not been far away. "Mr. Winslow isn't in, sir," he stated.

"I'll wait," announced Thorne. "Have the servants all retired, Lambert?"

"Except Lucy and myself, sir; we are waiting for Mr. and Mrs Winslow to return."

"And what is detaining them?"

"I have no idea, sir."

Thorne took out his pipe and tobacco pouch and proceeded to fill it leisurely, all the while keeping a watchful eye on the butler standing rigidly before him.

"Lambert," he tossed the match into a brass tray on a table near by. "Playing the stock market is a dangerous game."

The butlers eyelids quivered. "Yes, sir."

"Almost as dangerous as—double crossing the police." Lambert stood like a graven image, but his cheeks had grown an unhealthy color. "Who is your employer, Lambert?"

"Mr Winslow, sir."

"And who pays you the most—Mr. Jack Winslow?"

Lambert moistened his dry lips. "He hasn't any money, sir."

"True. Only the hope of a large inheritance," swiftly. "And people can't live on hope in this world. You're out of luck, Lambert,' and he laughed aloud.

For the first time the butler changed his position, while his right hand moved nervously over his thigh in an ever widening circular motion. Thorne's lips parted slightly and his eyes brightened, his surmise was right, the butler went armed. Was he, if taunted beyond endurance, a killer?

"Your luck's turned, Lambert." Thorne spoke ever so softly. "The bucket shop you helped support went on the rocks late this afternono, closed by federal authority."

"I Don't Feel Just Right, Doc"

(The Common Way of Describing Acidity)

You're not sick yet not well. Your stomach isn't just right, you don't sleep well and you tire easily. Your color isn't what it should be and you probably look drawn. A sort of vague, run-down feeling is one of the first symptoms of acidity. Acidity not only causes acid-indigestion with gas, sourness and burning, but sets up poisons which sap strength and vitality and makes us feel physically and mentally low.

Magnesia Oxoids, developed in Germany by a famous, 100-year-old pharmaceutical house, correct acidity in the right way! Upon contact with the acid in the stomach, Magnesia Oxoids generate nascent, or active oxygen. The "live" oxygen stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus, checks putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal and stimulates the activities of the intestinal walls which aids the natural movement of the bowels. All three effects are necessary to the true correction of acidity.

Make this Acidity Test

To see just how "acid" you are, make this test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids from Bradley's Drug Store or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal and see how much better you feel—how much more soundly you sleep and how much more energy you have. If, after taking the contents of one bottle, the results don't more than amaze you, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money promptly and in full. A-5-S

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

YESTERDAY morning, which was Sunday, I laid and thought a long time about my grandfather and how sad I would be to lose him. And then I thought about the wireless and what a smart man it must have been that got that up. A fella says somethng away out in the lake on a boat and another fella can set at home with all the doors and windows shut and hear him as plain as anything, and no one in between the two fellas can hear anything at all. If I had one of the things they use, in one of my pockets, and Younise had the other one in her pocket, I could talk to her wherever we were no matter how far apart, and we could hear each other. But that cant ever be, for girls don't have pockets. It is funny that boys have so many pockets and girls have so less. In the winter I have so many pockets that sometimes I have a pocket without anything in it.

When I had let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth and had went down and milked, and had come in to strain the milk and feed my face, it certainly seemed funny and lonesome without my grandfather there. It was a sad morning for all of us, and mostly for Annabelle Lee. Because my mother put her chair up close to the table where my grandfather had sat, and as soon as my mother had put her plate of oatmeal on the tray of her highchair, and had turned around, Annabelle Lee put her feet against the edge of the table and pushed herself over backwards and she landed on her back on the floor with the plate of oatmeal on her face and scairt us all. My mother grabbed her up and scraped the oatmeal off her face with her finger, and while she was washing her I turned a cartwheel to make her stop crying, and that made her laugh. She had a hicky on the back of her head where it hit the floor, but her face wasn't hurt. It was a good thing the plate was full of oatmeal, because it kept the hard plate from hurting her. Then I got washed by my ant, and it looked like she was playing a sort of tune on my face with the washrag. I bet she is happy because my grandfather is gone. After that I took the cows out and went to Sunday school. Everyone was glad my grandfather ... he gets back home ...

Love's Reawakening

A Wife's Triumph Over Jealousy

BY ADELE GARRISON

Pays Mentral Tribute to Mr. Owen

AT the sound of Charles Owen's voice asking what was the matter with the stag line, I felt as if someone had just thrust a hand into the nerves of my spine and twisted them. My fear and dislike of the man were so strong that I was not sure whether I could conquer them sufficiently to answer him with the casual pleasantness which his query demanded.

Harry Underwood's drawl gave me the moment necessary to pull myself together, and I wondered if he purposely had intervened as he so often had done before between me and a task which must later be faced, and for which I needed preparation.

No, Not Bashfulness

"Do you think it's stage fright, Owen, or mulishness?" he asked. "Of course, God's gift to American girlhood over there"—he gestured to young Cameron who stood by himself, watching the dancers—"is simply basking in the limelight while he decides to which girl he intends to drop the handkerchief. But those cadets—they're well-bred youngsters or I wouldn't have invited them—know that they are last minute guests, so they didn't line up for the first dance. But they ought to be cutting in by now, if only to pay for their supper. They don't teach bashfulness at West Point, you know, so I'm afraid they're savoring with delight the languishing glances most of the girls are casting their way."

"Marion isn't," Lillian said indignantly, and her husband laughed indulgently.

"You mean she's clever enough so that no casual glance could detect it. My dear, Marion wouldn't be a normal girl if she weren't speculating which one of those cadets means to cut in on her, and if she will be one of the first girls honored."

"I suppose so," Lillian sighed resignedly, and Mr. Owen spoke again.

"They need a bellwether," he said. "Will you excuse me, Mrs Underwood?"

He bowed to Lillian, whose dinner and theater partner he had been, and, waiting only for her startled nod, walked across the dance floor, a distinguished looking figure, but reminding me irresistibly of a softly padding panther.

He passed the cadets with a laughing word, but did not pause, walking straight across the dance floor and tapping the shoulder of the college boy who was dancing with Carolyn. I paid a mental tribute to his cleverness. I guessed he wished to dance with Marion—he meant to lose no opportunity of increasing the girl's childish admiration for her "roomie's uncle"—but he would make the action appear a perfectly natural one by first cutting in on his young niece.

"Some dancer, that lad!" Harry Underwood commented, as we fascinatedly watched the perfect rhythm of Mr. Owen's movements. "And he's turned the trick. See the ships of the line getting into action!"

We laughed as we saw the three young men who had been watching the dancers come to life almost in unison and stride across the dance floor. As I expected, young Mr. Cameron went straight to Mary's side and tapped Noel lightly on the shoulder. But Noel did not cut in on any other man, only stepped back and stood watching his lovely fiancee floating around the hall in young Cameron's arms.

"For "floating" was the only word to express the progress of those two around the ballroom. All the rest were graceful dancers, Ronald, Carolyn, Marion and one of the cadets was especially good. But there was something so different in the blended rhythm with which Mr. Cameron swept Mary around the floor that, despite my prejudice against the young talkie star, I found myself enjoying the picture they made and was slightly resentful when one of the collegians who had been tapped and relegated to the stag line took Mary away from Mr. Cameron.

No Stagnation There

There was no more cause for complaint about inaction on the part of the stag line. The cadets had gone straight to Marion and Carolyn as if visible lines were pulling them, and thus set the seal of expert approval upon their bellehip. But they scarcely had circled the dance floor once before they were banished again, and from that time on there was a merry war between the Army and Yale, in which football did not figure.

"Charlie's a spoil sport," Helena Brixton said as she watched him dancing with Marion and skilfully eluding the attempts of the younger men to cut in. "He has so much experience and such superior technique that he can keep them off longer than one of themselves. He's gotten them started now, and he ought to know enough to come back. There's room enough in this ballroom for everybody, and we chaperones ought to have a share in it. But if Charlie stays out there——"

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 29—Two nervous robbers, their faces masked with handkerchiefs, robbed William V. Kelly, 70-year-old multimillionaire, and Mrs. Kelley in their Lake Bluff mansion last night.

Five servants were herded with Mr. and Mrs. Kelly into the kitchen of the house—one of the show places of the entire North Shore—and held at bay by the pistol of one robber while the other started a search of the place.

All they got was about $200, for they became alarmed when an automobile turned into the private driveway, and left in a hurry.

Mr. Kelly, who is chairman of the board of the Miehle Printing Press & Manufacturing Co., said the robbers were so nervous that he feared the weapons they carried might be discharged accidentally. Mrs. Kelly, because of her advanced age and the shock of the experience, was reported in a state of collapse today.

Notice To Motorists

Again this station has caused the major companies to lower their pump prices in Marion.

Our price is always based on the delivered wholesale price and not on any competitive condition. To justify our claims we suggest you notice the pump prices of the large oil companies when passing through nearby cities where they have no competition.

This drop in price locally is for the purpose of drawing gallonage away from this station so they may drive us out of business in order that former higher prices may be charged. How long would gasoline be sold by the big oil companies for 16c if this station were forced out of business? This proves that this station regulates the price of gasoline here.

We do not get into price wars. Our patrons get the advantage of this great saving at all times due to our new method of merchandising gasoline and lubricating oil and receive coupons that represent another cent saving on each gallon of gasoline or quart of oil bought.

Patronize the station that made low price gasoline possible.

Sidelights of the Galion Game

Marion Harding trotted onto the Fairground field at just 2:17 p. m., attired in the usual red and black color combination. The squad spent the pre-game period in kicking and passing the ball.

• • •

Galion appeared on the scene eight minutes later attired in snappy orange jerseys with a G on the front. Signal practice occupied its time before hostilities commenced.

• • •

The crowd was not nearly so large as it should have been. A good percentage of the Harding students were in the stands but the out-of-school following was meager. Galion's following could have been much larger.

• • •

A roar of approval greeted the Harding team as it swept the Galion defense off its feet in the first minute of play to collect two first downs in quick succession. It was followed by a groan of misgiving about two minutes later as Stout and Smith commenced their pile driving tactics to tear off large gains for the visitors.

• • •

Fumbles seemed to be in order in the first quarter. On two occasions when Harding seemed about to be scored on Galion backs mishandled the pigskin and Marion recovered to avert a touchdown.

• • •

Both Bush of Harding and Goldsmith of Galion did a good job of the kicking assignments for the teams. For the game it is probable that Bush slightly outkicked Goldsmith but the latter's single effort that netted easily 55 yards eclipsed the best single kick made by Bush.

• • •

The play of the Harding team was easily 100 per cent better than that of the Toledo game. When a Galion man was tackled he knew in most cases that he had been hit! Bush nearly ruined Stout with a vicious flying tackle that laid the clever halfback cold for a time

• • •

Clay did just about everything that a good tackle should do and several things a tackle is not ordinarily supposed to have to do. His deadly tackling and general playing did more to save Harding from a worse beating than any other man. Two things only can save him from an all league berth this year. One would be to become incapacitated before playing in a majority of games and the other would be plain robbery.

• • •

The total yardage gained by scrimmage by the two teams was not far from equal. Harding gained 215 yards to 236 for Galion. However Galion led by far in all but the final period.

• • •

Harding was penalized 10 yards during the game. Galion lost 85 yards through the same method. The one five yard Harding penalty for offsides cost more than all of Galion's put together. Harding lost its only touchdown when a lineman got in too big a hurry.

• • •

Harding tried 11 forward passes and completed seven of them. One was intercepted and the others were incomplete. Of the interal passes Harding completed all but one.

Cards To Practice in Shibe Park Tomorrow

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29—The Cardinals will practice tomorrow at Shibe park, scene of the world series opening Wednesday.

Under the rules of world series play, the competing team has a right to one session of uninterrupted practice at the visiting park.

Many of the unofficial experts are of the opinion that Burleigh Grimes, veteran spitballer, will start for the Cards.

In order that the A's may become accustomed to the intricacies of spitball pitches, Mack has been having Jack Quinn pitch wet balls to them as much as possible the last few days.

HARDING BEATEN BY GALION 7-

THIRD PERIOD DRIVE NETS SINGLE SCORE

Presidents' Play Vastly Improved Over Week Ago; Passing Game Good.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star.

UNABLE to withstand a withering third quarter running attack of Galion the Harding High Presidents were defeated 7 to 0 Saturday in the first N. C. O. league encounter of the year. Harding lacked ability to take advantage of numerous breaks and failed to exhibit a strong scoring punch when the ball was within scoring distance.

Galion kicked off to Harding to start the game. The Bohyer team succeeded in making substantial gain through the visitors line to the extent of a couple of first downs but Galion soon tightened and took the ball on downs. From then on for the remainder of the first half it was all Galion. Harding was on the defensive the entire half.

A drive down the field early in the game netted the winners 60 yards and a chance to score but a backfield fumble cut short the opportunity. Harding drove the ball back into fairly safe territory on a punt by Bush only to have the invading outfit complete a 35-yard pass to again place Harding deep in its own territory. A second fumble again deprived Galion of a possible touchdown.

Galion Fumbles

Some good defensive work by the locals kept Galion from crossing the goal line during the first half. Time and again Galion worked the ball deep into the Harding end of the field only to lose the ball either by sloppy ball handling or a hard working Marion defense.

Galion came back in the second half with an offensive drive that refused to be stopped. With Stout and Smith carrying the brunt of a battering ram attack on Harding's forward wall with a few well directed passes and end plays interspersed it carried the ball across the line at the start of the period for the only score of the game. Smith bucked the ball across for the extra point on a fake play

Harding retaliated with its most powerful offensive exhibition of the game. Gaining possession of the ball within striking distance of the goal Marion completed a short pass for six points only to lose it by being offsides on the play.

Wright Rips Off Gains

In a desperate attempt to score in the final period Harding hurled pass after pass with almost deadly accuracy. An intercepted heave, the only one of the game, spoiled an opportunity to mark up six points in the early part of the quarter. Dick Wright, a second string back provided the team with an additional punch and also provided the spectators with a series of thrills with some classy broken field running. Dick ripped off gains of 10 and 15 yards on cut back plays and succeeded on one attempt in evading all but one tackler in his efforts to score.

Junior Clay, for the second successive week played bangup football for the locals. His tackle work was the outstanding feature of the Harding play. Sharing in the limelight with him were Bush, Lindsey, Morgan and Wright. The entire team presented a far more formidable appearance than in the Toledo fray a week earlier.

GIANTS BEAT PHILS 7-6 TO DECIDE FIGHT FOR THIRD POSITION

Brooklyn Wins but Finishes in Fourth Place; Ruth Hurls Game.

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

ONLY one place in the lineup of the two big leagues was in doubt as the teams went out for their final games yesterday and the New York Giants decided that by defeating the Phillies, 7 to 6 in a ten inning struggle to hold third place in the National league by a one-game margin over Brooklyn.

The Giants came from behind to tie the score in the ninth inning and won in the tenth. The Robins did their best to gain a tie, defeating the Boston Braves, 6 to 3.

The champion St. Louis Cardinals flashed a new pitching star to take their final game from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 3 to 1. Jerome "Dizzy" Dean, held the Pirates to three hits and shut them out after his first major league inning.

Babe Hurls Game

The New York Yankess brought forth an old timer of the hurling ranks, none other than Babe Ruth himself, and won a 9 to 3 decision from the Boston Red Sox. The Babe had not pitched a full game in nine years.

The Chicago Cubs came back to beat Cincinnati 13 to 11, after the Reds had scored nine runs in the second inning. Washington's second place team scored six times in the fifth to defeat Philadelphia's American league champions, 9 to 4. St. Louis and Cleveland divided a wild hitting double header, the Browns collecting 17-hits as they won the first game, 11 to 5, and the Indians unleashing a 20-hit attack to capture the second, 15 to 4. Chicago's White Sox did likewise, hitting safely 15 times as they defeated Detroit 10 to 7 through a strong finish.

Bobcats Off To Flying Start for 1930 Season

BOBCTS OFF TO 2-24 ch it lc

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 29—Ohio University apparently is off to a gridiron conquest, rivalling its ten-game sweep in 1929.

The answer to the "apparently" will be given in Indianapolis Friday night when Coach Don Peden's Bobcats meet the Butler college Bulldogs. If their winning streak which has now reached 12 games, survives that contest they may reasonably be expected to arrive at their game with the Wesleyan November 22, with a clean slate.

Ohio Wesleyan, showed itself ready for the hard Buckeye conference campaign by whipping Marshall of West Virginia 26 to 6. Carlisle looked especially well at quarterback. Marshall is a tough foe and Wesleyan was proud of its showing as compared with Ohio university's which was able to score only 27 points on determined little Wilmington college.

Wesleyan's next assignment is Heidelberg university whose scanty but veteran squad has yet to play a game. Miami, loser by 14 to 0 in a gallant stand against Indiana university, plays the reserves of Illinois at Oxford. Denison, trounced 33 to 0 by a second-string Michigan team, will probably have its hands full against Xavier university in Granville. Cincinnati, conqueror of Cedarville by 46 to 0, plays Kentucky Wesleyan and probably will win again.

The Ohio conference will also require another week of warming up for its annual dance. Dayton holds a decision over Ohio Northern while Kenyon lost to Oberlin Saturday, 25 to 7. Hiram plays Case Saturday while Muskingum plays Western Reserve.

The Muskies hold the early season record for high scoring, having defeated Rio Grande 60 to 0.

Ashland, back on Wooster's schedule after a long lapse, should give Coach Boles' boys a tussle although Wooster looked impressive in its 13-0 victory over West Liberty of West Virginia Saturday. Baldwin-Wallace opens against Bowling Green which took a 19 to 0 verdict from Hope college of Michigan Saturday. Bluffton was defeated 14 to 0, by Earlham in Indiana Saturday and next plays Capitol in its first game.

Ria Grande, twice defeated plays Marietta which lost its opener to Salem, 6 to 0. Oberlin visits the University of Rochester, N. Y. Toledo lost to Akron 41 to 0 and next encounters Ohio Northern. Cedarville opens Otterbein's season.

CHAMPS WIN EASILY; BUCYRUS DEFEATED

Norwalk Takes Close Game from Shelby in Non-League Contest.

While Harding High was being battered into defeat by Galion in an N. C. O. battle three other league outfits were clashing with outside opponents. Of the three teams playing only one N. C. O members came out ahead.

Mansfield, champs of 1929, crashed through with a 56 to 6 massacre of Danville after being ballyhooed since the beginning of the season as a team of distinct possibilities, possibilities of losing a lot of games this year. While not of N. C. O. calibre, Danville is not a school that produces unusually weak teams. The victory puts Mansfield into a favorable position for the ensuing race.

The other two teams, Bucyrus and Shelby were both defeated. Bexley High of Columbus took the Buck-town boys into camp 13 to 6 and Shelby dropped a 7 to 0 game to Norwalk.

1930 Grid Rule Explanations

ANSWERS

1. The ball is dead as soon as it is evident that kick failed. If a kick is attempted and blocked the ball cannot be carried across.

2. Player A is ineligible to receive ball after passing out of bounds. Team B gets ball at point of foul.

3. It is legal. Lineman may drop back so long as he is five yards behind line when ball is passed.

4. It is not a fair catch. Penalty is five yards and down is first with 10 yards to go.

5. No way possible under present rules to gain more than two minutes time out at one time. Opposing captain's consent does not permit exception.

QUESTIONS

1. Team A makes high punt. End of team A runs down field in front of BB safety man. Ball falls behind A end and safety man runs into A in attempting to recover ball. Decision?

2. Team B signals fair catch and makes it. A runs into and grasps B receiver neither failing to ground. Decision?

3. A throws forward pass. An ineligible tackle of A runs down field turning around toward passer. He makes no effort to attempt to catch pass and has back to B team fullback. He interferes with fullback's attempt to intercept pass. Decision?

4. B. Receives punt and attempts backward pass on play. However official rules pass went slightly forward instead of back. What is penalty, down and distance to be gained?

5. A. Makes forward pass but passer is only four yards back of line when ball is passed. B intercepts and runs for touchdown. Is score legal?

BASEBALL BOARD TO AWARD PENNANTS TO WINNING BALL CLUBS

Annual Presentation Banquet Set for Tonight in Y; Public Invited.

WHILE most everyone has turned from thought of baseball in general and Marion recreational baseball in partcular by this time the sport is due for a sudden revival of interest tonight when the city baseball commission sponsors its annual dinner at the Y. M. C. A. A larger crowd than has ever before attended the event is expected to be present tonight. More than 75 persons had made reservations for the affair late Saturday afternoon and more are expected to attend.

The four pennant winning teams of the city ball circuits will be awarded the pennants. Besides the four pennants to be given for the winning of the respective leagues the Erie Roundhouse ball club will be given a trophy emblematic of the city championship. Erie won the title by defeating the Lee Street Presbyterians in the final game of a seven game series. The Kappa fraternity and Calvary Sunday school teams were eliminated early in the series by the two finalists.

The dinner meeting tonight will be in the nature of a general get together and good time. Plans for th successful staging of next year's baseball season in Marion may be discussed although no action will be taken by the commission.

The dinner will cost 65 cents for all persons who are not members of the four winning teams or officials of the game. Any one may attend

Cards Possess Better Slugging Talent Than A's

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29—Collectively, the Cardinals have a heavier hitting outfield array than the Athletics, but in the robust person of Aloysius Harry Simmons, the American league champions possess the slugger most apt to break up a ball game on short notice.

Rival managers and pitchers have no hesitation in saying they would rather see any member of the A's except Simmons come to the plate in a pinch. Simmons started the winning rallies for the Mackmen in the last two games of the 1929 world's series. What he left undone, his outfield mates, George (Mule) Haas and Edmund (Bing) Miller, finished.

Miller and Haas have not been hitting anywhere near their best this year. Haas has been a casualty, but their series records help offset the fact that the St. Louis outfield trio of George Watkins, Chick Hafey and Taylor Douthit has been hitting at a .355 clip as compared to around .325 for their forthcoming rivals.

Watkins Hits Hard

Watkins wasn't on the regular roster of the Cardinals, reporting for spring training at Bradenton, Fla., last winter, but the Rochester recruit has been one of the National league sensations, batting has been heavy, close to .370 as well as timely.

Douthit is well below his companions in the hitting column but the fleet Cardinal fly-chaser is one of the best defensive men in the game.

Hafey's career at one time almost was checked by eye trouble but he has come back and hit around .340 all this year. He is a terrific line hitter and like Simmons, can break up a ball game.

The National league champions are better equipped in outfield reserves with a .370 slugger, George Fisher, ready to step emergency situation. Ray who doubles as a coach, available for outfield duty.

The Athletics have a crult in Jim Moore, Texa product, who joined the te in time to help win a games and become eligible world's series.

STOCKS SLUMP LOWER TODAY

Both Grain and Industrials Show Unsettled Condition of Market.

By International News Service

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—Both the grain market and the stock market started the new week in unsettled condition. First prices for important railroad stocks showed a loss of two points in the maximum, with fractional changes in the lower quoted shares. Wheat and corn dropped off from one to 2½ cents a bushel at the opening, as the result of general selling by commission houses and local traders. Call money opened at 1½ per cent for the first time in 15 years.

While the recovery of the opening in the wheat market in a sharply in the second hour, prices made a brave effort to regain lost ground. The blue-chip industrials were the leaders in the U. S. Steel rallying from above 160, Radio up a point and General Electric up 1½ at 48 and American Tel. and Tel. up points at 207. American Can started the day at 120⅞, points higher, in the second Radio and amusement sold higher.

Weakness in the oil stocks was the outstanding feature of the in-Texas Corporation two points at 45½ and of a point or less were for a dozen or more well known standard and independents.

GREEN CAMP MAN IS DROUTH AGENT

R. N. Lovett To Distribute Reduced Freight Permits in County.

R. N. Lovett, teacher of vocational agriculture at Green Camp High school, has been appointed by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde as authorized agent to distribute permits to Marion county farmers and food dealers who wish the benefit of reduced freight rates on imported feed, it was announced today.

The reduced rates have been authorized by the interstate commerce commission to counties in the drouth area. Marion county has been placed on the drouth list and farmers thereby are eligible for the freight reduction on feed.

The permits authorize the movement of livestock feeds from the west and south into the drouth areas at 50 per cent and 33 per cent reductions. The amount of the reduction in freight must be deducted from the sale price of feed, according to the plan.

The greater reduction is allowed on feed shipped from the eastern and southern freight division areas and the lesser on food from the west.

Feed shipped from Marion county, however, does not benefit from the reduction in freight rates, it is said.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

A welcome addition to Marion markets this morning, and one made in season by a decidedly chilly week-end, was the first of the 1930 hickory nuts. The nuts have not waited on a hard frost to bring them down, but have dropped voluntarily without the aid of a killing frost.

First indications were the hickory nuts would be scarce this year when farmers asked 25 cents for three pounds wholesale for them, but later indications pointed to a fair supply of nuts and prices were lowered. The retail price this morning was three pounds for 25 cents.

Quinces, from Marion county, were new today at two pounds for 25 cents.

Aggressive Buying Sends Prices Up After Setting New Low Mark.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 29—All deliveries of wheat plunged down temporarily to new low price records today, but met with aggressive buying that brought about quick rallies. Continued urgent offerings of Russian and Canadian wheat abroad were reported, together with an increase of the amount of wheat on ocean passage and sharp downturns in wheat quotations at Liverpool. An increase of the German tariff was likewise announced, but large buying orders here turned the market upward. Opening ½@2½ off, Chicago wheat futures soon reversed this action, and the market scored gains all around. Corn started ⅝@2¾ off, and like wheat snapped back.

Active speculative buying apparently based on belief that the wheat market has succumbed to hysteria, and that constructive influences were being ignored made its appearance in pit operations here. Under such circumstances, new selling drives at the start soon exhausted themselves, and losses that early took place here were more than overcome. Persistent falling off in the volume of arrivals of wheat at Winnipeg counted also as a strengthening factor, today's receipts there being but 2,455 cars, compared with 2,927 cars a week ago, and 3,104 cars at this time last year.

Reports of crop deterioration in Australia likewise received notice from friends of higher prices for wheat. On the other hand, bearish reports from Argentina were reflected by weak close of the Liverpool market and it brought about reactions which more than wiped out advances here for at least the time being. Frost predictions for tonight tended to lift corn values, but the effect failed to last when wheat failed to hold gains. Oats followed the action of other cereals.

Provisions were responsive chiefly to setbacks of hog values.

CHICAGO SUICIDE NOT MARION MAN

Ticket on Person Bought For Marion, Iowa, Not This City.

Fears of Marion parents that a youth whose body was found behind a Chicago church last week might be their son were definitely dispelled today when word was received that a railroad ticket on the youth's body was marked Marion, Ia, instead of Marion, O, as stated in a press dispatch from Chicago last week.

The error was detected by Mrs. B. F. Young of 682 Gay street who, fearing the body might be that of a son from whom she had received no word for several weeks, went to Chicago last Friday night to view the body. Her apprehension was dispelled when she saw the body, which she says does not resemble her son.

While at the morgue, she learned the railroad ticket found on the youth's body was issued at Chicago and intended for Marion, Ia., where the youth evidently lived.

Police here last week received numerous calls from anxious parents who have sons living in Chicago and from whom they had not heard for some time.
